RE: Erion Hasko

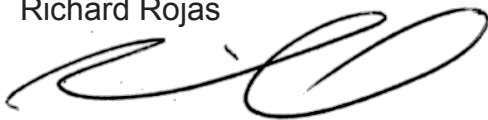

To Whom it may concern:

I write in support of Erion Hasko of Apolon Construction. I've known Erion for over the last few years and we met through a friend of his and then, a colleague of mine, who is a fellow real estate broker. Apolon Construction completed a stunning renovation for a penthouse unit at the United Nations Plaza and I knew immediately that Apolon Construction completes work with great attention to detail. I needed to know more about him and the company; my clients would love this high standard of quality.

After several coffees and breakfasts, I learned more about Erion as a business person and as a friend. Erion's big heart can be seen through his generosity and love of contributing to greater causes such as the fundraisers he's organized to help less fortunate children obtain school supplies. He contributes to a new cause every year. His compassion also ties in with the level of his integrity and commitment to keep his word. These characteristics positively impact his business and the end results Apolon Construction delivers.

In conclusion, Erion and Apolon Construction will be transparent, ethical, and will help make your renovation dreams become reality. I consider myself fortunate for having met such substantive people and I enthusiastically recommend Erion and Apolon every chance I get.
